THE NATIONAL FOUNDATION FOR CREDIT COUNSELING® WELCOMES NEW MEMBER AGENCY

Credit Advisors Foundation Joins the Longest Serving Network of Nonprofit Financial Counseling Centers in the Nation.

Washington, DC – The National Foundation for Credit Counseling® (NFCC®) is pleased to welcome Credit Advisors Foundation as the newest agency in a member network of nearly 600 community-based locations across America.

“Credit Advisors Foundation is a welcome addition to our nationwide network of nonprofit member organizations,” said Susan C. Keating, president and CEO of the NFCC. “Through their work they have established themselves as strong advocates for financial education while operating to high standards commonly associated with members of the NFCC. As financial challenges associated with consumer debt and personal savings continue, our work together will help struggling Americans achieve financial stability and reach their goals.”

Credit Advisors Foundation has been helping people get out of debt with dignity since 1991. As a leader in the field of financial education, they have helped thousands of people get control of their money problems and go on with their lives. In addition to providing credit and budget counseling, they also offer a series of online financial education resources as well as personal finance workshops. All programs and services are in support of a mission to provide programs and solutions that empower consumers to effectively manage their finances, create economic security, and realize equality of access and opportunity.

“We have long admired and emulated the standards for consumer programs put forth by the NFCC and are thrilled to now call ourselves members,” said Credit Advisors Foundation executive director Sam Hohman.

As a member of the NFCC, Credit Advisors Foundation will continue their accreditation through the Council on Accreditation, Inc. (COA) which has been an integral practice for the agency for 14 years. COA is an independent third-party not-for-profit accrediting organization reviews more than 1,500 social service programs to ensure compliance with rigorous best-practice standards. All NFCC member agencies must be COA accredited. The NFCC is also recognized within the sector, and by financial services companies for its trademarked Counselor Certification Program. All NFCC certified counselors complete the NFCC’s comprehensive training program to guarantee their ability to provide quality education and assistance to consumers.
